“Mental illness, in all its many forms, is still just an illness, not a cause for shame. There are treatments…and there is hope.” Steve Gannon

Let’s Talk About It

If you would like assistance navigating through resources, St. Luke’s Community Health department can help. Please call 208-630-2419.

Access this booklet online at stlukesonline.org/support.
Mental illness can be acute or chronic, long or short term, and can vary in cause, symptoms and intensity. A person’s decision to seek help for any mental health issue should be encouraged and supported. Like many illnesses, prevention and early intervention can reduce the impact of mental health conditions. However, symptoms of mental illness can often be painful and bewildering. Tragically, about 46% of people who die by suicide had a known mental health condition. But there is hope. And there is help. This guide can be a good place to start. Many resources are available in and around our community.

Help Right Here is dedicated to Jordan Goodwin, both to honor a young man’s vibrant life and to acknowledge the supportive community of McCall, Idaho. After Jordan’s suicide, McCall embraced us, his family and friends, who were left behind. Jordan’s shining star is deeply missed by many, while his legacy continues to touch lives every day.

A generous memorial scholarship was created for qualifying graduating seniors at McCall-Donnelly High School, funded by so many people who loved Jordan and stepped forward. His family has also become advocates on several teen suicide prevention platforms in his honor. Although it’s always very painful to talk about, dozens of teachers, coaches, parents, relatives and total strangers have opened better lines of communication about mental health and suicide since Jordan’s death on July 20, 2020. More dialogue is happening over the challenges our teenagers face every day: heartbreak, break-ups, divorce, sexual orientation, bullying, peer pressures, social media and many more issues that affect mental health.

Jordan’s tragic death shocked our community. It is with great hope that it will spur local community leaders to continue to strengthen support for our precious youth by spearheading more mental health outreach programs. Awareness and prevention at all school levels can strengthen the bonds between the schools and families, as well as further our understanding of how difficult world issues can impact our youth’s mental wellness.

Born and raised in McCall, Jordie was an awesome young man and a natural athlete in multiple sports throughout his 18 years in the community. He was a great friend to many and a very loved brother and son. May his life continue to be honored here, and in the beyond.

Lynn Johnson, Jordan’s mother

PLEASE NOTE: This booklet provides information about the many resources that address or treat mental health in our community. However, there may be organizations that are not included and/or resources that change after this publication. If you cannot find what you need, please call St. Luke’s Clinic – Behavioral Health in McCall at 208-630-2450 or, after hours, St. Luke’s Connect at 208-706-5850 for additional help.
Mental Ilness Facts

Mental illnesses are medical conditions that disrupt a person’s thinking, feeling, mood, ability to relate to others and daily functioning. Just as diabetes, asthma and epilepsy are medical conditions that can often be managed with proper care, mental illnesses are medical conditions that can be treated and managed. The good news about mental illness is that recovery is possible.

Serious mental illnesses include major depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD), panic disorder, post-traumatic stress, eating disorders and borderline personality disorder. Mental health can also be affected by situations and occurrences that cause a disruption in one’s ability to think, feel or function in daily life. This disruption may be temporary or long term, mild or serious.

Mental illness can affect people of any age, race, religion or income level. It is not the result of personal weakness, lack of character or poor upbringing.

Mental illness is also treatable. Most people diagnosed with serious mental illnesses can experience relief from their symptoms by actively participating in an individual treatment plan. If you have, or think you might have, a mental health concern, talking about it might be the first step in healing. If someone you know has, or you think they might have, a mental health concern, talking with them about it might help them get the care they need.

If you think something might be wrong—with you, with a friend, with a classmate, with a coworker, with anyone…

Ask. Talk. Listen. Find out about services and resources. Get Help. Do whatever it takes. You might be saving a life.

> “121 million people worldwide suffer from depression.”
> World Health Organization

Risk Factors and Warning Signs

Indications and symptoms of mental illness may include:

- Feelings of depression or sadness that are disproportionate to circumstances in duration, intensity or expression.
- Withdrawal or loss of interest in friends and family or activities.
- Strong feelings of anger or rage.
- Abuse of alcohol or drugs.
- Feelings of being trapped, like there is no way out.
- Exhibiting changes in personality.
- Exhibiting actions that are reckless or impulsive.
- Changes in sleeping patterns.
- Declining performance at work or school.
- Feelings of excessive guilt or shame.
- Feelings of extreme highs or lows.
- Excessive fears, worries, anxiety, panic or hopelessness.

> A mental health crisis is considered an emergency. Please call 911 if you or someone else is in crisis.
Help Prevent Suicide

URGENT WARNING SIGNS:

- Threatening to or talking about wanting to die and/or hurt or kill self or others.
- Looking for ways to kill self by seeking out firearms, pills or other means.
- Talking about feeling hopeless or having no reason to live.
- Talking or writing about, or having an inordinate interest in, the subject of death, dying or suicide.
- Talking about feeling trapped or in unbearable pain.
- Talking about being a burden to others.

KEY RISK FACTORS INCLUDE:

- Prior suicide attempts.
- Major depression.
- Substance use disorders.
- Other mental health or emotional problems
- Chronic pain.
- Post-traumatic stress.
- Traumatic brain injury.
- Recent loss or event leading to shame, despair or humiliation.

Access to firearms is a significant risk factor. There is an increased risk of suicide or suicide attempts for those who live in homes where firearms and ammunition are present. Keep firearms locked up, inaccessible, unloaded and separate from ammunition.

Communities play an important role in helping those who show warning signs.

“Eight out of 10 people considering suicide give some sign of their intentions.”
Mental Health America
Mental Health in Children

Mental health struggles can best be prevented and treated if they’re detected early. Issues can start developing early in childhood due to trauma, abuse and/or other events known as Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs). ACEs are potentially traumatic events that occur during a person’s early life, which can include violence, abuse and growing up in a family with mental health or substance abuse problems.

Toxic stress from ACEs can change brain development and affect how the body responds to stress. ACES are linked to chronic health problems, mental illness and substance misuse in adulthood. Nevertheless, ACEs can be prevented.

“Preventing ACEs could reduce the number of adults with depression by as much as 44%.”
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Potentially, preventing the occurrence of ACEs can help children and adults thrive, resulting in:

- Lower risk of depression, asthma, cancer and diabetes in adulthood.
- Reduction of risky behaviors like smoking and heavy drinking.
- Improved education and employment potential.

It’s important to stop ACEs from being passed from one generation to the next.

Mental health and well-being can be affected by many things, including stress from financial hardship, food insecurity, homelessness, illness, injury, family and relationship issues, and unemployment. Many programs and services are available in our community to address these and other issues. Call St. Luke’s Community Health at 208-630-2419 to find out more about the resources available in and around our community.

You can also use findhelpidaho.org, a social care network, to connect to programs that offer financial assistance, food pantries, medical care, and other free or reduced-cost help; contact the Idaho Careline by dialing 211 or visiting 211-idaho.communityos.org to access area services and support; and learn about additional resources through the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare at healthandwelfare.idaho.gov.
