“Mental illness, in all its many forms, is still just an illness, not a cause for shame. There are treatments...and there is hope.” Steve Gannon

Let’s Talk About It.
If you would like assistance navigating through resources, St. Luke’s Community Health department can help. Please call 208-381-4518.

Access this booklet online at stlukesonline.org/help.
Mental illness can be acute or chronic, long or short term, and can vary in cause, symptoms and intensity. A person’s decision to seek help for any mental health issue should be encouraged and supported. Like many illnesses, prevention and early intervention can reduce the impact of mental health conditions. However, symptoms of mental illness can often be painful and bewildering. Tragically, about 46% of people who die by suicide had a known mental health condition. But there is hope. And there is help. This guide can be a good place to start. Many resources are available in and around our community.

Help is Here! is dedicated to three-time Olympian, native Boisean and silver medalist Jeret “Speedy” Peterson. Growing up, he skied at Bogus Basin and, as a young athlete, earned the nickname “Speedy” after the cartoon character Speed Racer because of his big helmet, checkered jacket and flair for cutting the line. He succeeded at the highest level in aerial skiing, winning the silver medal at the Vancouver Olympic Games in 2010. Speedy captured the hearts of fans worldwide with his trademark quintuple twisting triple flip, “The Hurricane.” Beyond his athletic achievements, he looked out for others and cared deeply for his family and friends. He was a loving and outgoing young man. Unfortunately, Jeret had significant adverse childhood experiences. He battled depression and substance abuse. Tragically, he died by suicide in July 2011 at the age of 29.

Ten years ago, in the spirit of Jeret’s own passion for giving to others, The Speedy Foundation was established by his family and friends. The Foundation focuses on increasing mental health literacy and reducing stigma through advocacy, conversations and education.

Mental Illness Facts

Mental illnesses are medical conditions that disrupt a person’s thinking, feeling, mood, ability to relate to others and daily functioning. Just as diabetes, asthma and epilepsy are medical conditions that can often be managed with proper care, mental illnesses are medical conditions that can be treated and managed. The good news about mental illness is that recovery is possible.

Serious mental illnesses include major depression, schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, obsessive compulsive disorder (OCD), panic disorder, post-traumatic stress, eating disorders and borderline personality disorder. Mental health can also be affected by situations and occurrences that cause a disruption in one’s ability to think, feel or function in daily life. This disruption may be temporary or long term, mild or serious.

Mental illness can affect people of any age, race, religion or income level. It is not the result of personal weakness, lack of character or poor upbringing.

Mental illness is also treatable. Most people diagnosed with serious mental illnesses can experience relief from their symptoms by actively participating in an individual treatment plan. If you have, or think you might have, a mental health concern, talking about it might be the first step in healing. If someone you know has, or you think they might have, a mental health concern, talking with them about it might help them get the care they need.

If you think something might be wrong—with you, with a friend, with a classmate, with a coworker, with anyone…

“121 million people worldwide suffer from depression.”
World Health Organization

Risk Factors and Warning Signs

Indications and symptoms of mental illness may include

- Feelings of depression or sadness that are disproportionate to circumstances in duration, intensity or expression
- Withdrawal or loss of interest in friends and family or activities
- Strong feelings of anger or rage
- Abuse of alcohol or drugs
- Feelings of being trapped, like there is no way out
- Exhibiting changes in personality
- Exhibiting actions that are reckless or impulsive
- Changes in sleeping patterns
- Declining performance at work or school
- Feelings of excessive guilt or shame
- Feelings of extreme highs or lows
- Excessive fears, worries, anxiety, panic or hopelessness

A mental health crisis is considered an emergency. Please call 911 if you or someone else is in crisis.
Help Prevent Suicide

URGENT WARNING SIGNS:

• Threatening to or talking about wanting to die and/or hurt or kill self or others.
• Looking for ways to kill self by seeking out firearms, pills or other means.
• Talking about feeling hopeless or having no reason to live.
• Talking or writing about, or having an inordinate interest in, the subject of death, dying or suicide.
• Talking about feeling trapped or in unbearable pain.
• Talking about being a burden to others.

KEY RISK FACTORS INCLUDE

• Prior suicide attempts
• Major depression
• Substance use disorders
• Other mental health or emotional problems
• Chronic pain
• Post-traumatic stress
• Traumatic brain injury
• Recent loss or event leading to shame, despair or humiliation.

Firearm access is a significant risk factor. There is an increased risk of suicide or suicide attempts for those who live in homes where firearms and ammunition are present. Keep firearms locked up, inaccessible, unloaded and separate from ammunition.

Communities play an important role in helping those who show warning signs.

“Eight out of 10 people considering suicide give some sign of their intentions.”
Mental Health America
Mental Health in Children

Mental health struggles can best be prevented and treated if they’re detected early. Mental health problems can start developing early in childhood due to trauma, abuse and/or other events known as Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs). ACEs are potentially traumatic events that occur during a person’s early life, which can include violence, abuse and growing up in a family with mental health or substance abuse problems.

Toxic stress from ACEs can change brain development and affect how the body responds to stress. ACES are linked to chronic health problems, mental illness and substance misuse in adulthood. Nevertheless, ACEs can be prevented.

Potentially, preventing the occurrence of ACEs can help children and adults thrive, resulting in:

- Lower risk of depression, asthma, cancer and diabetes in adulthood
- Reduction of risky behaviors like smoking and heavy drinking
- Improved education and employment potential

It’s important to stop ACEs from being passed from one generation to the next.

Source: cdc.gov/violenceprevention/aces

“Preventing ACEs could reduce the number of adults with depression by as much as 44%.”
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC)

The St. Luke’s Community Health department and the Consulate of Mexico believe that investments in the treatment of mental health issues are crucial to the health of our community. Generous contributions from La Comisión de Salud Fronteriza México-Estados Unidos have helped fund the publication of this Help is Here! resource guide. We are also grateful to the Consulate of Mexico in Boise for their support for this project. We would also like to thank The Speedy Foundation for their help and support of this booklet.
